St. Paul's Co-educational College Model United Nations 2024

St. Paul's Co-educational College Model United Nations (SPCCMUN) is, like other MUN conferences, a simulation of the United Nations, offering students an exciting opportunity to play the roles of world leaders and diplomats representing nations in various committees. Throughout the process, delegates will gain insights into the dynamics of international relations and hone their skills especially public speaking, negotiation, teamwork and policy designing.

SPCC is proud to present the second iteration of SPCCMUN from 2 to 5 July 2024. At this conference, we embrace the overarching theme of sustainable development, featuring three councils, namely The European Union (EU), The Human Rights Council (HRC), and The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (UNESCO). Delegates from our school and abroad will debate contentious issues ranging from Russo-Ukrainian war, child soldiers to preserving cultural heritage in hopes of drafting innovative solutions for a more sustainable, equitable future.

Delegates will engage in rigorous debate and consensus building, they will also be enlightened by keynote speeches presented by experts in respective fields. To ensure the best possible conference experience, delegates are encouraged to reside in nearby accommodation.

Founded by the Sheng Kung Hui (Anglican Church) in 1915, St. Paul's Co-educational College prides itself as a Round Square school famed for its academic excellence and is committed to nurturing students into confident individuals, lifelong learners and responsible global citizens. Our strong international links and extensive exchange programmes ensure students develop an understanding of worldwide interconnections. The school is located in Central, the heart of the city and Hong Kong's primary central business district.

Whether you are a novice delegate looking to gain experience, or a seasoned delegate looking to engage in intense discussion, SPCCMUN will provide an ideal opportunity for you to network with like-minded peers around the world.
